

Wolfville & Acadia University

Visitors' Guide

Wolfville Harbour

Downtown Wolfville

Downtown is where everything that makes this place special meets, mingles, and seeps into your soul. Here, history, nature, community and enterprise all vie for attention.

Park the car, and let your feet take you where they may. Grab a coffee at one of our Fair Trade Coffee shops and pop into a few or all of the distinctive and memorable boutiques.

Wander off the beaten path for a moment, and discover a wide variety of nature trails or check out some work by the region's artisans. And once the sun begins its descent, come to the downtown to settle into the traditional pub, cosmopolitan bistro, or charming restaurants that speaks most to you.

Wolfville is more than a downtown strip that can be explored in a day. When you choose to spend the night in Wolfville at one of our exquisite inns, fine bed & breakfasts, or cozy cottages you grant yourself the chance to discover even more of this wonderful place. And take home even more memories.

Acadia University

Beyond the ivy-covered academic buildings, awesome residences, incredible sports facilities, and renowned natural environmental and recreation areas, visitors will find an international student body, small classes, high-level research facilities, award-winning professors and supportive alumni.

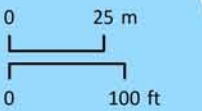

Founded in 1838, Acadia University has a long tradition of academic excellence and groundbreaking innovation. Although its offerings are many, its small size necessitates working across disciplines and including undergraduate students in important research. Acadia's students contribute to the outstanding reputation Acadia enjoys, a consistent top-level ranking by Maclean's and top marks in the Globe and Mail's Canadian University Report Card. In return, a liberal arts education from Acadia prepares its students for the complex world ahead.
